Catalytic Philanthropy

What kinds of practices do we need to steward what Arundhati Roy talks of here —
“Another world is not only possible, she is on her way. On a quiet day, I can hear her breathing.”

H1 Practice	H2 Practice	H3 Practice
Sees their role as managing and monitoring grants	Places emphasis on relationship, but only within the frame of grantmaking	Sees grantmaking as one part of the practice and recognizes a wider role in making use of all foundation assets
Acts as if they are accountable to the Board	Acts as if they are accountable to the grantee	Acts as if they are accountable to the system and the ambition of the work
Funding projects	Funding areas of work, services, and themes	Funding systemic shifts, creating conditions and resourcing infrastructure
Prioritizes case studies	Prioritizes storytelling	Prioritizes narrative change and field building, linking stories to the change being sought

Group Discussion

How is your organization evolving to fit your highest purpose?

What will it take?

I'm not sure how many of us really contemplate freedom.

We can create the future we wish to see rather than simply eliminating the present conditions we need to change.

We have to take seriously our capacity to see beyond the challenges we face and the problems we need to solve.

- Transactional to Transformative

Spotting Hopeful Signals

What signals are you noticing that give you hope?

Where do you look for inspiring stories of stewards in action?

Putting Three Horizons Into Practice

- Dare to imagine possibilities that may not yet exist and create spaces where you can dream with others.
- Bridge timescales by working over the short and long term simultaneously. Appreciate the decades-long nature of the work at hand and the need to make decisions now that bring a different future to life.
- Scan the field for signs of the future you wish to create; and commit to join, encourage, and enact those practices individually, organizationally, and through networks.
- Develop the courage to let go of harmful practices and embrace those that are healing and liberating.
- Share your three horizons journey with fellow stewards.
